Jim Hanley's Universe sucks less

A shocking admission: Jim Hanley's Universe is the worst place to buy your comic books, except for all the others.

By Jim Hanley

Let's face it, all comic book stores are pretty awful places.

It's not that their owners are all unprincipled louts, (though some are) it's just that running a comics store takes some rather specialized skills. You have to know site selection, merchandising, inventory control, bookkeeping & financial control, advertising design & placement, and personnel management (to say nothing of being familiar with the business end of a vacuum cleaner).

It also helps to know what Scott McCloud calls the " vocabulary of Comics." After all, if you can't tell good comics from bad, you'll have a hard time ordering ones that your customers will buy. These skills take a long time and a great deal of trial & error to develop and they don't come cheap.

Customer service

This brings me to the biggest hurdle for the store owner: customer service. I don't mean old saws like "the customer is always right." I'm talking about simple courtesies like making sure that every customer gets his or her comics even if it means looking in the bottom box or giving up your personal copy. Things like calling another store to find that missing issue or the right T-shirt size. These are things that most of our competitors don't seem to understand.

We suck less

Of course, we do lots of dumb things too. What sets us apart from everyone else is that we admit that our service sometimes sucks. And we work to correct it. I've found that customers will forgive us for almost any goofy thing we do as long as we do three things:

- Say we're sorry
- Mean it
- Fix the problem
- Do not do it again

(Um, four things. Sorry. I won't do that again).

Who needs Jim Hanley's Universe?

One of the most important lessons that I've ever learned is that comic book readers don't need to spend their money at Jim Hanley's Universe. Other stores carry the same comics we do. We all get them on the same day at almost the same time. So we have to keep trying to improve just to keep our current customers happy (quite aside from attracting those of you who don't shop with us yet). You don't have to buy from us, because after all, it's still your money.

Do I have to move?

Well, if you want to shop every week in our fairly clean, not too disorganized, marginally well stocked stores, it does help to live nearby. But I don't think this sales pitch will convince many comics fans to uproot their families and move to New York.

Luckily, we have recently decided to bring the same miserable level of service that New Yorkers have come to tolerate to comic fans around the world. So now you can deal with our mail order department, no matter what comic book store has disappointed you in the past. Send for a free catalogue. If we don't lose your letter, we'll eventually send you one.

My parents would be so proud.

HOW TO USE FANDOM DIRECTORY

Fandom Directory is a research and networking tool which can be used in many ways to help you find the people and organizations you are seeking. The best way to learn how to use Fandom Directory is to actually use it to answer questions. So with this in mind, below you will find several typical questions (with answers) which routinely come in to us at FANDATA about how to find information in Fandom Directory. Remember, there is always more than one way to find the information you want. It's all a matter of digging. The indexes are cross-referenced at several places to help you in your information "excavation."

"I plan to travel this summer across the Midwest, and I'd like to drop into serveral SF and comic shops."

The Retail Stores Index (page 259) is the place to look. Start with each state and skim down the list until you find the cities you will be visiting. You might want to call the store in advance to get their business hours.

"Is there an SF convention near me in July?"

Probably. There are coventions almost everywhere in July. Look first in the Convention Index which starts on page 71 in this edition. Thumb through to July and check out the header lines. There you will find the city and the site of each convention. There should be one near you. Use the contact information in the rest of the listing to get the details from the show coordinator. Fandom Directory is published annually, so we don't print the specifics about guests since they change often. Be sure to call or write ahead and request a more detailed flyer. Every convention coordinator will be happy to send you all the information you need to attend their show.

"I'm looking for the address of someone I met at a convention, but I lost their address. How do I find someone if I only know their name?"

The easiest way to find someone by name is in the Alphabetical Listing which begins on page 177 in this edition. Look them up by the first letter of their last name. All listings in this edition have an entry there. If they are not there, then they aren't listed this year. Once you have found them, jot down their state and zip code and go to the Zip Code Listing starting on page 399. Use the state and zip code to locate their full mailing address.

"I have a term paper to prepare on the process of comics characters moving to television. I live in New York. Where do I start?"

The Reseach Libraries of Interest to Fandom (starting on page 167) will get you started. The states are alphabetized and there are phone numbers and email addresses to help you make contact. Don't stop there though. Contact several of the comics publishers and TV companies too. (Look them up by name in the Alphabetical Listing.) Many of these companies have research departments which would be happy to help a student get an "A."

"I want to make a mailing to everyone in the US with an interest in Science Fiction toys."

You can indeed use Fandom Directory for this, but it will take you hours to dig out the information. Here's how you do it. Go to the Zip Code Listing and look for all the entries which have both "SF" (science fiction) and "TY" (toys) in their interest codes. Write or type each address on an envelope. But, a better way is to contact FANDATA and we'll rent you a list of these names on peel & stick mailing labels ready for you to apply to your mailing piece. The cost is really quite small and we can save you a lot of time and eyestrain. Also the information in Fandom Directory is current as of February 1998, but the information in our data base is updated daily. Fandom Directory has 20,000 listing in it. Our data base has over 65,000 listings. More data, fresher data, less time, no eyestrain? Seems like an easy business decision. Call 1-888-FANDATA for a free consultation and custom quotation.

"I want to send email to a girl I met in Europe. She says she's in Fandom Directory and has a Web site. Where's her email address!?"

Point your Web browser to http://www.fandata.com. This will get you to the Fandom Directory Online Edition which we update monthly. Use the search button to look her up by her last name. The listings there will give you point and click access to her email address and a link to her home page.

1998 sees the continuation of a trend in Fandom that was prevalent throughout 1997; the movement of Fandom to the Internet. Electronic zines are replacing paper-printed zines at a remarkable rate. Fan clubs which exist only as part of listserver or as web sites with chat rooms are increasing. The Fandom Directory On-line Edition for February 1998 was our 25th consecutive monthly edition and listed 4,223 email addresses and 2,408 web sites.

The Fandom Directory On-line Edition remains a supplement to this paper edition. Email addresses and web site addresses are located there instead of here in this printed edition. Our site statistics show that the on-line edition is being accessed an average of 268 times per day for a total of over 47,000 visits in 1997. But, 1998 has already started off with a roar with over 8,200 visits in January 1998 alone. This reflects the growth of Fandom on the Internet.

Correspondingly, interest in the paper edition of Fandom Directory seems to be dropping off Circulation for the paper edition remains strong, but 9 percent below 1996 levels. This year we've gone to a lower cover price ($19.95, down from $22.95) and lowered the page count slightly (560, down from 576) in order to offer as much value as possible for "under $20," which our surveys indicated you wanted. I've been considering moving to a bi-annual publication schedule for the paper edition. What do you think?

Our cover this year was conceived and created by James Wappel of Chicago, Illinois. I finally met James at Dragon*Con in Atlanta in August 1997. He has a wonderful imagination and his craftsmanship and artistry are superb. Check out his "Minbari in Black" display ad on page 529. I gotta get me one of those!

The artwork contest for this year saw an incredible array of fan artists vying for the coveted 24 slots that we have room to publish each year. We had 102 contest pieces submitted by 93 different artists. This year our contest was won by Renee Biertempfel of Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania. Congratulations Renee! The best-of-theme prize was won by David Fontaine of Attleboro, Massachusetts for his wonderful piece revealing that the Yellow Kid was really Alfred E Newman in disguise! Very clever Dave. The judges loved it. Check out all the winners in the Artists' Gallery which begins on page 375.

Zines, clubs and cons all came in with strong numbers this year. We present 667 fanzines in the Fan Publications Index that starts on page 21. If a zine has an on-line version, we also present information about that. Like I said, there are hundreds of e-zines cropping up all across Fandom. Starting on page 109, we present a record 1,271 fan clubs. Fandom is all about fans getting together and communicating. Although the electronic communications of the Internet is growing by leaps and bounds, it seems to be stimulating face-to-face meetings and club formation rather than diminishing them. Finally, we present 530 conventions beginning on page 71. Check it out, on any given weekend, there always seems to be a convention somewhere!

On a nostalgic note, I was reminded this month that it was 20 years ago, exactly, that FANDATA was born (then called Fandom Computer Services). I started FCS at the dining room table of my one-bedroom apartment on a TRS-80 Model I microcomputer with programming I wrote in BASIC and information gathered at conventions or through the mails from fans wishing to contact and be contacted by other fans and collectors. FANDATA and Fandom Directory have come quite a long way in these short 20 years. Thanks for sharing them with me.

Be sure to let me know what you think about a monthly publication schedule for the Fandom Directory Online Edition and a bi-annual (once every two years) schedule for this paper edition. Any changes you'd like to see as a result? Should we move the Convention Index to the on-line edition, for example? Let me hear your thoughts.

RESEARCH LIBRARIES OF INTEREST TO FANDOM

This is a list of 105 libraries which have special collections of interest to fans. Each of these libraries has been individually contacted and has recertified their collections. The data listed about each collection are current as of the date shown in the listing. Libraries must recertify annually in order to continue to be listed here.

If you know of a library with a special collection of interest to fans, have the librarian contact us and we'll be happy to list their collection in our next annual edition.

Two groups of users are envisioned for this directory: readers and researchers who need the resources of a collection larger or more rare than they themselves can amass, and collectors, dealers or publishers looking for places to donate or sell their material. We have tried to include only collections that give the interests of fandom some pride of place, either by making their material non-circulating or through other special handling or designation.

Important: Call or write before you visit any of these libraries. One of the librarian's duties is to protect the collections for posterity. If you make yourself known in advance, we're less likely to seem like they're protecting the collection from you!

UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA, RIVERSIDE
The Eaton Collection is a comprehensive research resource in the field of science fiction, fantasy and horror. The collection now about 75,000 volumes hardback and paperback, and currently grows at 3,000-5,000 titles per year. Recent surge in growth is the result of several gifts, and the annexation of a large collection of sf-related boys' books. There are approximately 6,000 issues of pulp magazines, the 15,000 issue Terry Carr Fanzine collection, now augmented by the 10,000 issue Rick Sneary Fanzine holdings. Fanzine holdings are currently being massively augmented by a multi-year gift from Bruce Pelz. Comic book holdings (superheros) now number some 30,000 including some 2,000 French bandes dessinees. The Eaton Collection has recently acquired the Edwin Casebeer sf comic collection, totalling some 12,00 items; it has also received a sizeable multi-year gift of more recent comics from Mychael Callahan. The collection is exhaustive in US and UK sf, has massive holdings in French sf (including complete runs of Fiction and Fleuve noir anticipation), and has large Russian-language holdings. The Eaton Collection is now expanding into the areas of Japanese sf and manga, and Chinese language sf (notably Taiwan, Honk Kong, Singapore and mainland China). There is a large video and audio library, shooting scripts of sf films, and an archive of books, clippings and articles pertaining to sf film history. Manuscript collections: Gregory Benford, Robert L. Forward, David Brin, Colin Wilson, TV scripts of Michael Cassutt. There are also massive holdings in critical and bibliographical literature pertaining to the field. Books fully catalogued on OCLC, fanzines and comics are currently being catalogued on OCLC. Finally, the Eaton Collection has some 400 titles of early utopian/imaginary voyage literature from 17th - 19th century, in multiple languages. (01/97)

HOW TO USE THIS LISTING

The entries in this listing are printed in alphabetical order. Each entry consists of a name, a state or province and a zip code. In the case of a country other than the U.S. or Canada, no zip or postal code is listed; instead the first six characters of the country's name are listed. To look up the full address, telephone number, status and interests of any entry, simply thumb to the state, province or country listed in the Zip Code Listing which begins on page 399. An asterisk ("*") in front of a name indicates a retail store which can only be found in the Retail Stores Index beginning on page 259. For your convenience we have included at the right a complete list of the two-letter state and province abbreviations used by the U.S. Postal Service.

HOW TO USE THIS LISTING

The entries in this listing are basically in zip code order. However, the states have been sorted alphabetically (i.e. Alabama, Alaska, Arizona, etc.). Following the U.S. are the Canadian provinces presented alphabetically with the individual listings in postal code order. Finally, the remaining countries are presented alphabetically.

A small letter "e" after the telephone number of a listing indicates that further information on this listing is available in the Fandom Directory Online Edition available on the World Wide Web at http://www.fandata.com

Translations for the codes found in the Status and Interest columns can be found on page 16.

LAST MINUTE ADDITIONS & UPDATES

The following listings were all received at the last minute. All these entries were received between February 8th and 16th. Some of them are new entries, and some of them are updates to past listings. These names appear in none of the other indexes or listings in this edition. They were pasted up minutes prior to delivery of the final pages to our printer on the 17th. These entries made it in at the last second, but each year there are dozens of disappointed people whose data forms arrive too late for inclusion in the current edition. To avoid missing out, please get your information in early. These entries are arranged alphabetically by name.
